Annexure - 1

This session will feature the perspective of distinguished author, professor, and IEEE Access Editor-in-Chief, Derek Abbott, who will provide critical insights on IEEE's peer review and submission processes as well as tips on what editors look for in submissions. Presenters will also cover topics such as open access programs for institutions, research strategies using the IEEE Xplore Digital Library, author tools, and other valuable resources.

Additional Topics Include:

- How to increase the visibility and impact of your research
- Tips and best practices to improve an author's chances of getting published
- What editors and reviewers look for in submissions
- Common reasons why papers are rejected
- Selecting the right publication for your research submission
- Reasons to consider an open access journal for your submission
- Open access options available for authors and institutions
- Research strategies using IEEE Xplore Digital Library
- Authorship tools available for promoting open science
- Live Q&A: Ask the experts

This free webinar will provide attendees with best practices in submitting a manuscript to improve the journal submission process, and important tips to help an author get published. It will also review the opportunities authors and academic institutions have to enhance the visibility and impact of their research by publishing in the many open access options available from IEEE.

This session will feature the perspectives of distinguished author, professor, and IEEE Access Editor-in-Chief, Derek Abbott, who will provide critical insights on IEEE's peer review and submission processes and tips on what editors look for in submissions. In addition, presenters from IEEE will be on hand to cover topics such as IEEE Open Access programs for institutions, research strategies using IEEE Xplore author tools from IEEE, and other important resources for authors.

Topics to be Covered:

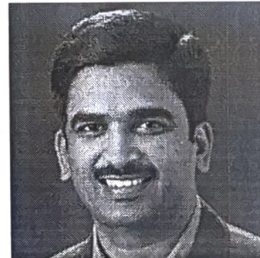

- How to increase the visibility and impact of your research
- Tips and best practices to improve an author's chances of getting published
- What editors and reviewers look for in submissions
- Common reasons why papers are rejected
- Selecting the right journal for your research submission
- Warning signs to look for to avoid predatory journals
- Reasons to consider an open access journal for your publications
- Open access options available from IEEE for authors and institutions
- Research strategies using IEEE Xplore Digital Library
- Authorship tools available for submitting open science
- Live Q&A: Ask the experts!

Speakers:

Dr. Derek Abbott
IEEE Access Editor-in-Chief,
University of Adelaide, Australia

Derek Abbott (Fellow, IEEE) is a full professor of electrical and electronic engineering at the University of Adelaide, Australia. He has won a number of awards, including the South Australian Tall Poppy Award for Science (2011), an Australian Research Council Prime Fellowship (2012), the David Goodhart Medal (2011), the Cairns Lyell Medal (2011), and the M. A. Jarrett Medal (2010) for services in engineering. He has served as an Editor and/or Guest Editor for a number of journals, including the IEEE Journal of Solid State Circuits, the Journal of Optics B, Royal Society Open Science, Chaos, the Proceedings of the IEEE, and the IEEE Photonics Journal. His research programs span a number of areas of interest, namely, theory, systems, energy policy, biomedical engineering, and nanotechnology.

Dhanu Pattanashetti
Senior Client Services Manager,
India, IEEE

For over 11 years, Dhanu Pattanashetti has worked at the IEEE Client Services and University Partnership Programs Manager for customers in southern and western states in India and Sri Lanka. Prior to joining IEEE, Dhanu worked at Thomson Reuters, PES Institute of Technology, and Accenture. He has a PhD in Library and Information Science from The University of Mysore, a master's degree in Library and Information Science, and a bachelor's degree in Engineering.

Collin Dmello
International Area Manager,
Bangladesh, India, Nepal, Sri Lanka,
IEEE

Collin Dmello is the IEEE International Area Manager for India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and Nepal with an overall 23+ years of Information Industry experience. Since 2018, he has been helping IEEE customers across academia, government, and corporations drive innovation and collaboration using IEEE information and insights and supporting lifelong learning by providing IEEE's trusted educational services (courses and certifications). Prior to joining IEEE, he was the Chief Business Officer at GIST, where he was responsible for driving and growing their information business. He has completed his executive education from INSEAD, France, and graduated from Murren University.
